Besides protection from decay, this process improves the natural qualities of the timber, by increasing its hardness or density, its flexibility, elasticity and strength; prevents its expansion and contraction, and reduces its combustibility. It also favors the application of various persistent colors to the different varieties of wood. The apparatus employed in this process was invented some sixteen years ago, in Hungary, by A. Hamar, who has by letters patent from the United States secured the right to its exclusive use here, in impregnating timber with certain substances. This Patent has been assigned to this Company. In order...
